Kaleidoscope Centre

A radical new building in Lewisham, South London for the care of children and young people

The Kaleidoscope Centre brings together, a range of truly comprehensive services for the care of children, combined with a groundbreaking innovative teamworking approach

The Client Lewisham Primary Care Trust, the South London and Maudsley NHS Foundation, and the London Borough of Lewisham in a joint venture

The Brief A flagship project to improve children's services through multi-agency integration based on a central file location for each child

For the provision of a landmark building to house child health, mental health, social care, and educational services all in one place - so that clinicians, therapists, special needs professionals and their support teams, can implement a Team Around the Child concept

The Architect Van Heyningen and Hayward, the renowned architectural practice, with the winning entry in a high profile competition organised by CAFE

The Building Five storeys. U-shaped, around a central courtyard garden. Combines clinical areas on the ground and first floors, integrated with administrative space on the second, third and fourth: all furnished to meet the key strategic aim of developing active inter-agency teamwork and the breaking down of barriers

The Interior Triumph worked with Eurotek, the furniture supplier, to deliver high quality furnishings seldom found in public health facilities. Primary colours in the storage were used to highlight the individual floor identities, producing spaces which promoted top level service provision and productivity with modern teamworking practices

The Storage Triumph's storage perfectly complemented the overall design using special colours of green and blue to emphasize a child friendly environment: with a full range of double door cupboards, side tambours, pedestals and all the necessary accessories
